Quantum Sails is proud to once again be named a Technical Partner for Yacht Club Costa Smeralda for 2022. In 2015, we began our relationship with YCCS by outfitting the J/70 fleet with custom Quantum sails. Since then, we have grown our partnership by not only providing onsite J/70 coaching and support, but also in our commitment to the wider YCCS sailing community through other events, products, and services.

Our goal as Technical Partner is to help ensure the YCCS racing and cruising communities have the best possible experience on the water and get maximum enjoyment from our beloved sport. We support the YCCS mission to deliver world-class competition, inclusivity, and a platform for the next generation of sailors.

“We couldn't be more proud of this ongoing relationship with one of the most prestigious yacht clubs in the world.” said Ed Reynolds, President of Quantum Sails. “Through our joint values and emphasis on elevating the sport of sailing, this partnership has helped us deliver more support and benefits to our important Italian clientele.”

Quantum's dedication is visible not only on the water, but also in the evolution of our products and services to provide ever-greater performance and customer satisfaction. Whether you're cruising with your family, learning to sail, or competing for a championship title, you can trust that the Quantum team understands your needs and is with you every step of the way. We're here to help you meet your sailing challenges—whatever those may be.

Look for Quantum experts at upcoming events at Yacht Club Costa Smeralda, including regatta support, seminars, and service. You may also contact Vittorio d'Albertas with any questions or to learn more about Quantum Sails and our commitment to YCCS.
